Kennyetta Louis, 34, of Cincinnati pled guilty in April to identity fraud, a felony of the second degree, and aggravated theft, a felony of the third degree, for charging $189,652 on a Luxottica company credit card. Today, Judge Robert Peeler sentenced her to two years in prison. A restitution hearing is to be scheduled at a later date.

Louis formerly worked as a temporary employee for Luxottica Retail as Manager of Corporate Credit Division. While in this capacity, she was notified of the death of a Luxottica employee and was directed by the company to cancel the company American Express card that was issued to the deceased employee. Instead, Louis called American Express and advised them to begin sending the credit card statements to her home address.

During the time of July through November of 2014, Louis charged $189,652 in various items and services, such as clothing, jewelry, appliances, new windows for her residence, airline tickets, hotel rooms, entertainment tickets, and dental services. Louis told investigators she stole the items because she felt she was underpaid.
